AREA 4-H CAMP COMMITTEE TO MEET IN MORGAN

Site For New 4-H Camp To Be Told At Meet Tuesday

Two sites in Morgan county for the proposed Northeastern Kentucky Area 4-H Club camp will be inspected by the camp location committee next Tuesday morning prior to a meeting of the Northeastern 4-H Camp Committee in the West Liberty Christian church the same day at 1 p.m.

Selection of the site for the new permanent area camp to serve 24 northeastern counties will be announced by the camp location committee at the afternoon meeting.

The camp location committee is composed of one representative from each of the 24 counties. Jay Young of Boyd county is chairman of the location committee.

Morgan county's representative is Rev. Raymond Hemphill of Wrigley. Elliott's representative is Carl Redwine.

The committee already has inspected a number of proffered sites for the new camp in adjoining counties, but has left the inspection of the two sites in Morgan until the morning of the meeting.

Sites offered in Morgan are on the farm of Rev. J. Ryan Nevius on the head of Grassy Creek and on the farm of Ruth Bros. in the Ruble Woods section near Mussel Shoals.

The committee also has been offered a number of sites in Elliott county and in Floyd near Dewey Lake.

Morgan and Elliott are near the center of the 24-county area. The new area camp will be constructed to replace a number of smaller district camps. When built, the camp will be in use most of the summer, with 4-H club members of one county using the camp one week, another county the next, and so on.

Morgan county, being near the center of the area and having surfaced roads to the proposed sites and also having hospital, telephone and electric facilities, is believed to have a good chance to have the camp located here.

The Northeastern 4-H Committee has four sub-committees that will meet and report at the meeting here next Tuesday. In addition to the camp location committee, the plans and finance committee of which W. G. Ratliff of West Liberty is chairman, will report. Also the corporation committee of which Ellis Boggs, Floyd county agent, is chairman, will report.

Approximately 60 4-H leaders, county agents and citizens from the 24 counties will attend the meeting here.

In the morning of the same day, the county agents, 4-H leaders and senior 4-H members from Morgan, Elliott, Magoffin, Menifee and Lawrence counties will meet at 10 o'clock in the REA building in West Liberty to make plans for the annual district 4-H camp at the J. M. Feltner Camp in Johnson county, to be held this year July 25-29.

UK MEN TO MEET HERE

Officials of the Kentucky Experiment Station who will be in West Liberty next Tuesday to attend the meeting of the Eastern Kentucky 4-H Club district at which time a location for a new regional 4-H camp will be picked, will include Ernest Nesius, associate director of the Experiment Station; J. W. Whitehouse, state leader in 4-H club work, and R. H. Lickert, district supervisor of county agents.

In Of Morgan

The Courier needs a tintype of Elder Daniel Williams to illustrate a forthcoming feature story about this patriarch of Morgan county. The DAR will dedicate a monument at his grave at Caney this summer, the third Revolutionary War soldier's grave to be so marked in Morgan. Elder Williams was among the first permanent settlers in Morgan, was the first Baptist preacher and the first moderator of the Burning Springs Baptist Association, the second Baptist association organized in Kentucky. If anyone knows where a picture of the patriarch may be obtained, The Courier would like to have the information. Or any material about him.

Rae Pieratt Fund Started Here To Aid Hospitalized Student

A Rae Pieratt Fund was started in West Liberty this week to help Miss Rae Pieratt, 17, of Yocum, become ill shortly after enrolling as a senior in high school here last September. Since then most of her time has been spent in hospitals and in bed at home. She is now in St. Joseph Hospital awaiting another operation.

Her parents have spent all their money in efforts to restore Rae to normal health. Their entire income amounted to only about a thousand dollars last year. They have sold their home and all of that money too has been spent in the desperate stand to save their daughter's life.

The hospital bill as of March 24 stood at $555.00—and is mounting daily. Also she has been administered four pints of blood and only three have been replaced through donations.

The Rae Pieratt Fund was started by a committee of local citizens who know the conditions and the needs in the case. Contributions can be made to Dr. Ralph Gullett, West Liberty, chairman of the fund committee. Checks should be made out to The Rae Pieratt Fund or direct to St. Joseph Hospital. All monies received will be turned over to St. Joseph Hospital, Dr. Gullett said.

Miss Pieratt is suffering from a liver disease and needs surgery and hospital care to sustain life. Persons wishing to help in this deserving case should send in their contributions as soon as possible.

SALK VACCINE APPLICATIONS ARE READIED

Final Report On New Vaccine Due Apr. 12 In Nation

All but 14 schools in Morgan county have completed collecting from parents their applications for the new Salk vaccine against polio for their children.

The new vaccine will be given all first and second grade school children whose parents request it, the Morgan County Health Department has announced. School officials estimate their are about 700 children in this group in Morgan county.

The Salk vaccine will be administered to first and second grade children simultaneously throughout the nation if the new vaccine proves effective and is licensed by the Federal government.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which is sponsoring the nation-wide vaccination to protect against polio, said the official report on the effectiveness of the vaccine will be announced April 12. Medical experts now are calculating the results of test vaccinations of a half-million children last year.

The New York Herald-Tribune in a copyrighted story Wednesday said it had learned from an "unimpeachable medical source" that not a single child who took the vaccine developed polio. Other sources however say not all the facts have been tabulated yet.

If the vaccine is released as planned, two clinics will be set up in Morgan to vaccinate children whose parents have requested it—at Ezel and West Liberty. Local doctors, school officials, the Health Department and volunteers are cooperating in the county-wide immunization program. Dr. Ralph Gullett will direct the program in Morgan. School buses will be run to bring children to the clinics.

MORE ABOUT TOBACCO

Taken from a University of Kentucky report, is the following: "The interest of farmers who may be dubious about the tobacco program: 'A point sometimes overlooked, is that the program has worked well in maintaining quite stable prices at a relatively satisfactory level. This was one of the objectives of the program. Had it not been successful in this respect, growers would not be so anxious now to grow all tobacco possible. A tobacco allotment is a cherished possession.'

Good Teachers Create Interest, Second Article on Education Says

A child increases his interest in learning because of the "right now" values instead of what it will mean to him when he is grown.

Many a child learned to hate music from a parent who wanted him to play the piano. Many a student has learned in order to pass a test only to forget it next week.

This illustrates the importance of creating the "right now" interest in the pupil.

How does a good teacher avoid the pitfall of stressing learning instead of creating interest? The good teacher stimulates interest and arouses curiosity by introducing outside resources in the form of pictures, stories, film strips and other related objects, waiting for the pupil to show interest and then very carefully encouraging him to broaden it.

The good teacher knows children enjoy new experiences. The good teacher knows that sooner or later children will want to try to play the piano if they are given the opportunity to watch and hear others play, not because "someday" they'll be pianists, but because it is fun today.

Capable teachers encourage children much more frequently than they punish them. But above all, they seek to cultivate the natural desire to learn because nothing is more important. And now the most difficult problem is in learning the "how". Most children do not learn "how" if they sit and listen to the teacher tell them how or if they recite what is in the book.

BENSON FARM POLICY HIT BY CONGRESSMEN

WASHINGTON, March 25—Agriculture Secretary Benson and the House Appropriations Committee belabored each other with verbal hoe handles today.

The committee, in passing on Benson's budget requests, said some of his policies were negligible, irreparable and political. It accused him of foot-dragging in offering surplus stock to foreign buyers and said administration production control programs were forcing farmers off the land.

In reply, Benson said it is time to stop manipulating the farm program to promote partisan political purposes. He called the committee's report "political propaganda."

The report, recommending the $878,625,391 in cash and 388 million dollars in lending authority for the Agriculture Department's fiscal year starting July 1, was drafted by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Whitten (D-Miss.) and composed of four Democrats and three Republicans. The full committee is composed of 50 members—30 Democrats and 20 Republicans.

In overhauling Benson's budget requests, the subcommittee restored some items which he had eliminated, added to others, and cut some. It wound up with a net reduction of $6,424,524.

The committee's report said: "Evidently, with the Department of Agriculture, a branch of the executive department, political and other considerations predominate to the point of preventing action."

This referred specifically to operations of the Commodity Credit Corporation which handles the government's farm price support program and which drew much of the committee's criticism. Benson is chairman of CCC's board of directors.

"Proper actions by the corporation are made subservient to a host of other considerations, many of which," the committee said, "are unsound. These actions by the secretary of agriculture and others about him appear to be part of a plan to use CCC costs and losses to support their determined efforts to change the price support program."

The committee said its investigations found "numerous examples of administrative deficiencies, excessive operating costs, lack of personnel training and supervision, and inadequate sales policies," as well as "questionable practices" in the Commodity Stabilization Service, which is the CCC's parent organization.

"Evidence was developed," it said, "indicating that the same operating negligence and administrative irresponsibility resulting in the widespread grain scandals of a few years ago 'are still in existence.'"

The committee rapped the CCC for not making a greater effort to dispose of surplus products by offering them in the world market. The government has invested more than seven billion dollars in surpluses to support domestic prices.

Asserting the CCC has no sales policy or program "worthy of the name," the committee directed the agency to get a sales manager and to sell surplus commodities at the best price other countries will pay.

It suggested that CCC be made an independent agency if necessary.

REFERENDUM SET FOR APRIL 20-25 BY U.S. AG. DEPT.

Barkley Says Failure To Vote Cut Means An Economic Chaos

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 31—The Congress last night completed work on a bill to permit burley tobacco growers to vote on a proposal to reduce burley production this year.

A bill identical to the one passed last Thursday by the House was passed by the Senate last night and now needs only the President's signature to become law.

And a few hours later, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said the Department plans to hold the tobacco referendum for burley growers between April 20 and 25. The referendum will apply only to this year's crop.

The bill authorizes Secretary of Agriculture Benson to call a referendum by burley growers on cuts in both marketing quotas and minimum acreage.

The chief controversy in the Senate, as in the House last week, was on the question of applying the 7-tenths-of-an-acre, the present "protected" minimum allotment of 7-tenths-of-an-acre. The bill will lower this minimum base to 5-tenths-of-an-acre with the proviso that no more than 1-tenth can be cut in any year.

A two-thirds majority of the growers voting is needed to carry the referendum. If two-thirds fail to approve the cuts there will be no price support program this year.

Amendments aimed at retaining the 7-tenths-acre minimum bases and a second to limit the cut to 1-tenth-acre and fixing the minimum at 6-tenths, were defeated in both the House and Senate.

Tobacco state Senators pointed out that quick and drastic action is needed to save the program. Agriculture Department, farm organizations, tobacco growers organizations all are agreed that cuts are needed to preserve the price-support program.

Senators Clements and Barkley supported the bill. They pointed out the Department of Agriculture had asked that burley production be cut 50% in the next two years. If the price-support program collapses, the small grower will be hurt worse than the larger grower.

"I dislike to see anyone cut," Clements said. "That is not the real problem. The question is whether we are going to save this program—and that takes action now."

Barkley said that if the price-support program collapses there will be little incentive for growers to raise burley regardless of the size of his base. And without the allotment, the value of a grower's farm would decrease, he added.

"This program is more important than one-tenth of an acre," Clements declared.

Barkley warned that "the pillars will come down on all growers if the program collapses."

"Furthermore, it would take only one bad year to bring production into equality with demand," Ervin said. "The increased penalties on overproduction in (Continued on page 8)

DAR TO MARK THE GRAVE OF ELDER DANIEL WILLIAMS

Plans for dedicating a marker at the grave at Caney of Elder Daniel Williams were discussed at a dinner meeting of the Morgan County chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held Monday evening in Stamper's dining room here.

Elder Daniel Williams, a Revolutionary War soldier, also was the first Baptist preacher in Morgan county and the first moderator of the Burning Springs Baptist Association, the second such association organized in Kentucky. He came to Morgan county about 1803 after coming to Kentucky with Daniel Boone on his second trip to Kentucky. He helped defend Boonesboro against the Indians and fought in the Battle of Blue Licks.

He was the father of Squire John T. Williams of Dingus who was one of the magistrates appointed by Gov. Adair to form Morgan county in 1823, and the grandfather of Capt. John T. Williams of lower Caney Creek, Confederate leader during the Civil War. His offerings are numbered in the hundreds in this section.

His grave and that of his wife, Mary Couch Williams, are marked by simple headstones in the cemetery overlooking the village of Caney.

Dedication of a marker at his grave is set for late summer by the local DAR. It will be the third marker erected at graves of Morgan county Revolutionary War soldiers. The first marker was erected two years ago at the grave of Joseph Carter at Mize and the second was erected last summer at the grave of Thomas Lewis at Pomp.

Mrs. Ova Amyx, regent of the local chapter, reported that a suitable marker for the grave of Elder Williams had been ordered.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Amyx, Mrs. C. K. Stacy, Mrs. George W. Stewart, Mrs. John Rose, Mrs. Harold Rose, Mrs. Elizabeth Hulek, Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Kinner were guests.

THE BURLEY REFERENDUM

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced the referendum on cutting burley quotas will be conducted between April 20 and 25th.

With 3½ years' supply of burley in storage and consumption falling, quick action is needed so farmers can regulate their acreage according to estimated needs. Tobacco commences to rot after three years in storage, and some burley has been in storage 3½ years. Production must be cut in order to save the price-support program.

Acreage cuts will hurt. But as bad as the cuts are, they will be preferable to losing price-supports and quota allotments. If the program is voted out, growers will be at the mercy of tobacco companies that already have too much tobacco in storage. As Senator Barkley said, "economic collapse would result" in burley states.

But the bill enacted by Congress and placed before the growers to ratify, has other provisions. We think two sections of the bill are worth all the sacrifices called for in the cuts. We refer to the sections that eliminate growing excess poundage and eliminating red card acreage as a basis of qualifying for new allotments the next year. Growers in several states outside the historic burley belt have used red card acreage to get new bases, and burley growing has spread to 18 states. The bill thus will help the little Kentucky grower.

Morgan growers should be reminded that if they want to vote out the program, there are many other states that want any burley allotments Kentucky might lose if they vote the program out.

THE CITY'S FINANCES

In this issue will be found the financial statement of the city of West Liberty. The city officials are to be complimented and given due credit for this statement. It is a full compliance with the law and certainly should be appreciated by every citizen and taxpayer.

The receipts and the expenditures are itemized, and no citizen can complain or wonder and asks question such as, "Where did our money go?" and "How much money did they collect?" The answers are given in full and complete detail in the publication of their income and expenditure.

Every citizen and taxpayer appreciates the information. While it costs a small sum to publish such statements, it certainly is worth the cost to let the people know the fiscal details of their governmental units. The Mayor, the city council, the clerk and the police department certainly merit the confidence of the people in this respect.

THE LEGEND OF THE DOGWOOD

There is a legend, says Carroll Bradford Merritt in the April Reader's Digest, that at the time of the Crickifixion the dogwood had been the size of the oak and other forest trees. So firm and strong was the tree that it was chosen as the timber for the cross. To be used thus for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree, and Jesus, nailed upon it, sensed this, and in His gentle pity for all sorrow and suffering said to it:

"Because of your regret and pity for My suffering, never again shall the dogwood tree grow large enough to be used as a cross. Henceforth it shall be slender and bent and twisted and its blossoms shall be in the form of a cross—two long and two short petals. And in the center of the outer edge of each petal there will be nail prints, brown with rust, and in the center of the flower will be a crown of thorns, and all who see it will remember."

MILK SUCCEEDS LEAF

Now that tobacco is no longer in high favor, farmers are casting their eyes on other production, including milk. One hundred and thirty-eight Lewis county farmers attended a meeting at Tollesboro to hear about the milk business. A producers' association at Huntington, W. Va., is putting in a new milk route that will take 1,000 gallons a day of Lewis County Grade A milk. Other distributors are said to be interested in getting Eastern Kentucky milk.

From the BBC Radio Times: "More and more women are making their own clothes and there are plenty of figures to prove it."

A lot of the wrinkles in a business man's face are trade marks.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TOBACCO EDITORIAL

The Courier—

I have read the editorial in the Licking Valley Courier concerning the tobacco situation.

In my opinion, you have treated a very serious matter with the calmness and deliberation for which the situation calls, and it goes without saying that there is no enjoyment on the part of the members of Congress to pursue the course of action prescribed if we are to save the Burley program. Rather, it is a realization that emergency situations call for emergency action, regardless of how bitter the pill.

THIRTEEN NEW JOBS IN HI HAT

Arley Hayes Turns An Idea Into A $100,000 Business

Arley Hayes is a product of his own philosophy.

He lives in Hi Hat, Kentucky, and he believes that people there can develop industries themselves—if they want them enough. He believes this because he has developed an industry himself.

Two years ago, he was in the business of selling automobile parts. Like a lot of people, he was having a hard time. But he had an idea that, with some help, he could make steel bodies for coal trucks. He believed he could make them for less money.

He gathered some workers and put up $6,000 for operating capital. The Hayes Metal Products Company was then in business.

Today Arley Hayes' company manufactures truck bodies, steel playground equipment and steel tanks. There are 13 men in his regular work force and during rush periods there's a night shift of three additional men.

"We hope to be able to expand our operations as soon as we get more facilities," Arley Hayes said recently. "We would like to set up an assembly line operation on truck bodies and further diversify our operations."

The new company's business—only an idea two years ago—was in the neighborhood of $100,000 during 1954.

FROM COAL MINING TO CHICKEN RAISING

Beckley People Start a
$1,000,000 Industry in The Switch

When folks around Beckley, West Virginia, found they couldn't depend entirely on coal for a living, they started raising poultry. During 1953 alone they sold more than $1,294,000 worth of broilers.

And that's only part of the story. Growers also received $75,000 for manure and $32,000 for feed sacks. Dealers in the area sold $993,000 worth of feed and chicks.

What's behind all this? How did it happen among people who for generations have largely made their living from the coal mines?

Simple. People around Beckley were determined to make things better—and they had an idea how to do it. The Beckley Area Rural Development Council was formed. One of its five commissions was devoted to establishing a poultry industry.

By 1949 the commission went to work. Advice and information went out to people who wanted to give the new idea a try.

Processing plants were set up at Beckley and Ronceverte. Plants at Huntington and Charleston have been expanded to handle the increased supply of birds.

With more than a million dollars' investment in buildings and equipment, Beckley's new industry seems well on its feet. It's probably there to stay. One thing is certain: Folks around there found there's more than one way to make a living.

Ideas like these—once put to work—are helping this area. If you have such an idea, give it a chance to do some good. Tell it to the editor of this newspaper . . . or write to us, the Kentucky Power Company.

Eastern Kentucky will improve only as its people improve it—and... People Can Do Anything!

TOBACCO VOTE

 ation where we'll have no surplus."

Barkley recalled that his grandfather came from North Carolina, that his father was born in Tennessee, and he himself in Kentucky, the oldest of eight children.

"I know about large families and small farms in all those places," Barkley said. "Tobacco is a hard crop to grow—the hardest. I can remember the pitifully small prices the grower received for a crop that, as they used to say, takes 13 months out of every 12 to raise.

"I remember when burley sold for 5 cents a pound, and I saw it sell under this (the present) program at from 50 to 60 cents a pound. Nothing more tragic could happen to the grower than to lose this program."

Clements said: "I am convinced this bill will provide an equitable basis for a continuation of our fine tobacco program. Without this legislation, the major portion of any future reduction would have been taken by growers in Kentucky. This will provide a fair reduction among all states growing burley tobacco."

Allotments above the present 7-of-an-acre minimum could not be cut more than 15 per cent.
 A 10 per cent cut has already been put on 1955 acres and this would bring the total cut to 25 per cent.

The other sections provide for:
 1. An increase penalty for marketing "red-card" tobacco grown in excess of the growers' quota. The penalty, now 50 per cent of the previous year, would be raised to 75 per cent.
 2. Prevention of any burley acreage harvested in excess of allotted acreage from being added to next year's allotment.
 3. Penalization of any grower falsely reporting on his acreage grown. The amount falsely reported would be cut out of his next year's allotment.

Approval of the bills in the referendum requires a two-thirds majority vote by the growers.
 Failure to approve means there will be no support price for burley.

Declining Prices On Cattle, Hogs, Milk, Eggs Seen

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 23—
 Declining prices on cattle, hogs, milk and eggs are foreseen by the University of Kentucky agricultural economics department.
 It also predicted yesterday that prices will be steady the next 30 to 60 days on lambs, wool and broiler chickens.

Prices on better grades of fed cattle are expected to decline seasonally, with lightweight cattle steady to firm.
 Heavy marketing figure to make hog prices seasonally weak.
 Improved prices will depend on weather demand takes up increase output.

Increase production is expected to lower milk prices to farmers.
 But light marketings probably will bring steady to strong prices.
